Websites, web apps, CRM and support

Who we are.

Masuyo builds websites, web apps and custom CRMs for small businesses that run on bookings, quotes and stock. Fixed prices, scoped properly, and looked after once they are live.

How we come across

Mostly a business you can trust with your money and your deadlines, finished properly, with a bit of street culture in the texture and the tone.

We say

- ✓ Your site takes bookings while you're out on a job.
- ✓ Fixed price, agreed before we start.
- ✓ We look after it once it's live.

We don't say

- ✗ Best in class digital solutions.
- ✗ Prices from, plus extras.
- ✗ We're disrupting your industry.

Logo.

The wordmark is lowercase Albert Sans Extra Bold. The dot carries the brand: aqua on petrol, and the same colour as the wordmark everywhere else.

Clear space

Minimum width 80px on screen, 20mm in print

Keep a space the height of the o clear on every side. Nothing else goes inside the line.

Monogram

For small spaces: the Instagram avatar, favicons, stickers and app icons.

Colour versions

On light: petrol, dot matches

On petrol: paper with the aqua dot

On aqua: petrol, dot matches

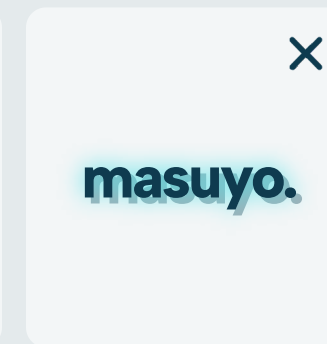

Please don't

Stretch or squash it

Change the colours

Add shadows or glows

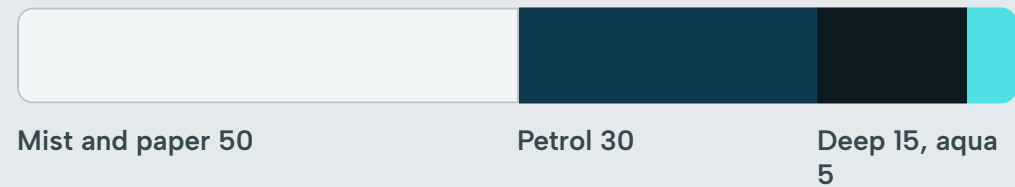

Outline it

Petrol does the heavy lifting, mist gives it room and aqua is the spark.
Aqua only ever sits on petrol or deep, never on the light colours.

Color Name	Hex Code	RGB Values	Usage Description
Petrol	#0F3B4F	RGB 15, 59, 79	Primary. Hero areas, buttons, the wordmark.
Deep	#0D1A20	RGB 13, 26, 32	Text and dark posts
Aqua	#4FE0E6	RGB 79, 224, 230	The spark. Dots, pen marks, highlighter
Steel	#52626A	RGB 82, 98, 106	Secondary text
Mist	#E4EAEC	RGB 228, 234, 236	Page ground
Paper	#F3F6F7	RGB 243, 246, 247	Cards, and text on petrol

Proportions

Light grounds and petrol carry most layouts. Aqua is a spark: a dot, a chalk mark, a button. Never a background for long text.

Contrast

Aa Paper on petrol
11:1, any text

Aa Petrol on mist
9.8:1, any text

Aa Deep on aqua
11:1, any text

 Aqua on mist
1.3:1, never for text

- ✓ Short statements end with a full stop
- ✗ No all caps, no letter spacing

Icons.

Drawn, not generated. A pen line with a slight wobble, an aqua fill printed just off register, a small tilt and one detail that makes each icon ours.

Below 24px, thicken the line and drop the small detail so the shape still reads.

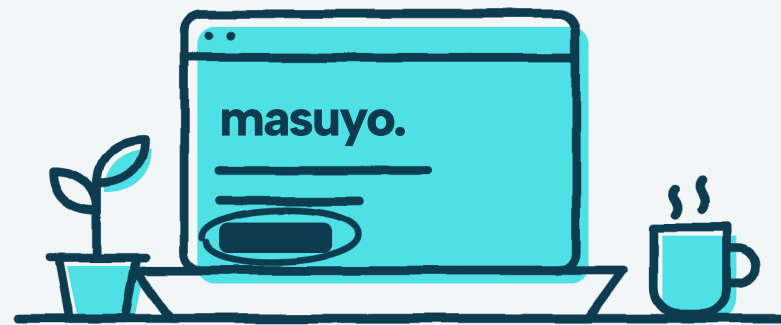

How they are drawn

- 1 Line: 2.4 on a 48 grid, round ends and joins, a little wobble from the pen.
- 2 Fill: aqua, knocked two units down and to the right, like a print that slipped.
- 3 Detail: one small thing that makes it ours. A heart on the mug, a glint on the lens.
- 4 Tilt: two to four degrees in use. Never perfectly straight.

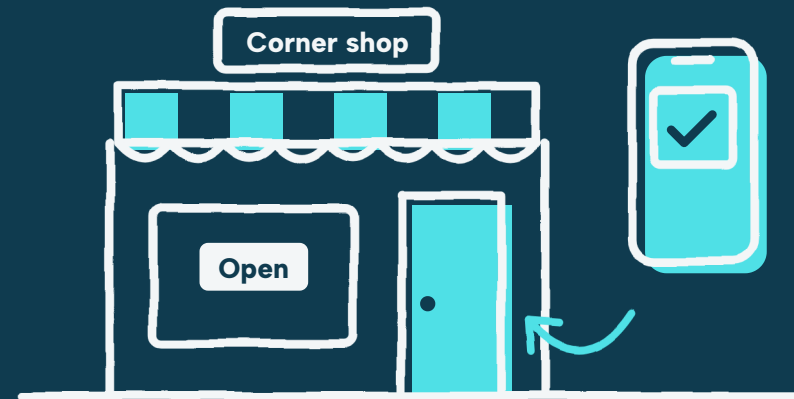

Illustration.

Spot illustrations use the icon language at a bigger scale: the same pen line, the same off register fill, plus a pen mark or two for movement. Simple scenes from the working day of the businesses we build for.

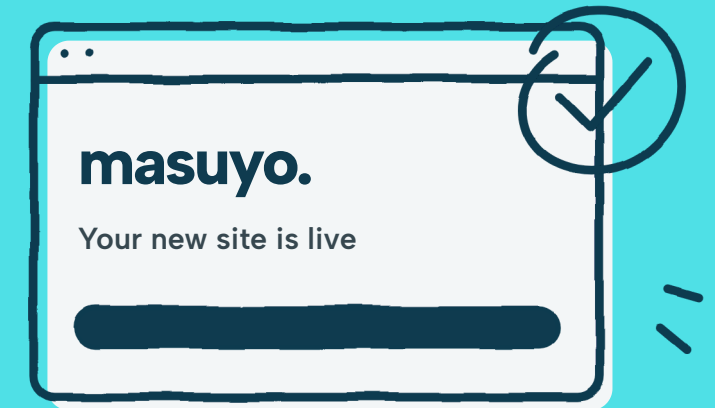

At the desk

The work behind the work. For about pages, process posts and support.

The shop on the corner

The businesses we build for. For service pages and local campaigns.

Going live

Launches and handovers. For new site posts and case studies.

- ✓ Same pen line as the icons, scaled up
- ✓ Petrol, aqua and paper only
- ✓ One or two pen marks for movement
- ✗ No faces, gradients or stock clip art

Elements.

Pen and highlighter are the personality: the marks you'd make on a printout before a meeting. They circle, point, tick and underline. Used sparingly, they make every layout feel worked on by a person.

Aqua at 55%, behind the lower half of one word. Flat colour, straight edges, a slight tilt.

On petrol

Shipped once.

Drop the highlighter to 45% so paper text stays readable. Pen marks switch to aqua.

The dot

Ends the wordmark and section titles. Used as a bullet, never as decoration on its own.

Die cut

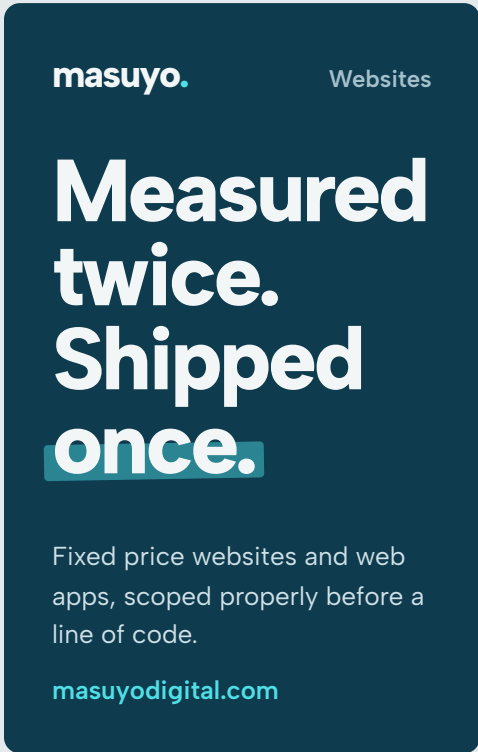

Stickers get a 5px white border and a soft drop.

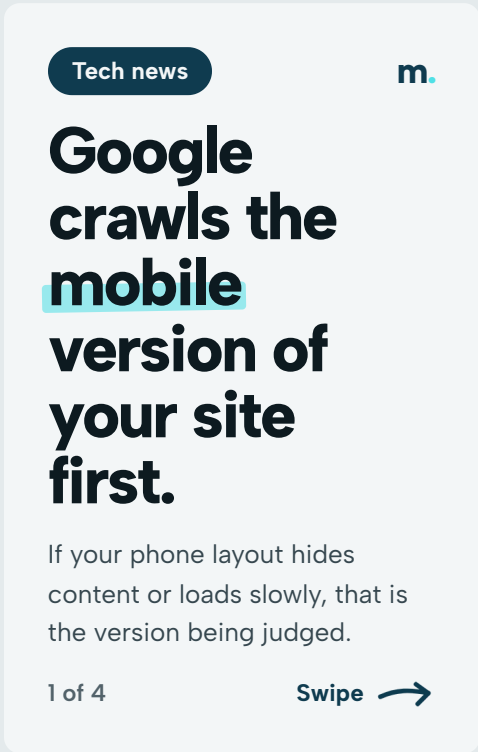

- ✓ One or two marks per layout
- ✓ Petrol pen on light, aqua pen on petrol
- ✗ Never blurred, glowing or textured

Instagram.

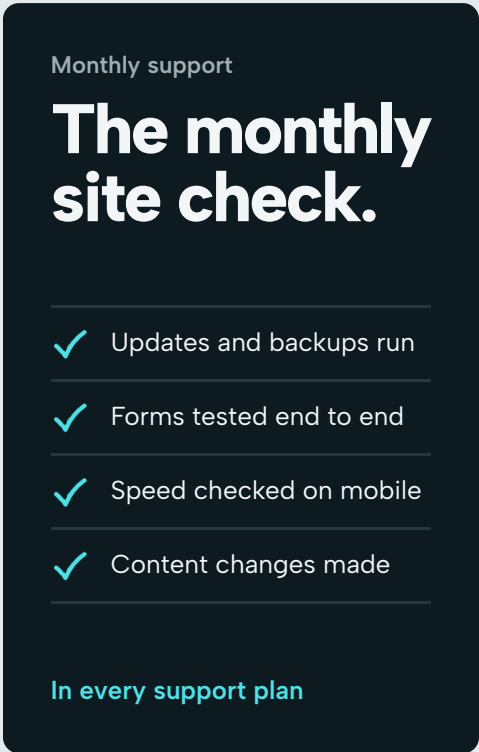

Three post types do most of the work: services, tech and marketing news, and practical tips. One pen mark, one highlight at most, and plenty of room.
